

AdSS power fiber optic cable wholesale price

AI Overview

ADSS fiber optic cable wholesale prices typically range from $0.02 to $1.20 per meter depending on core count, sheath type, span length, and environmental resistance. Price Ranges Low-core, short-span cables (e.g., 12-core, ≤ 100 meters) with standard double PE jackets generally cost $0.25–$0.35 per meter. High-core, long-span cables (e.g., 48-core, ≥ 500 meters) with reinforced structures, high tensile strength aramid yarn, and tracking-resistant jackets can cost $0.90–$1.20 per meter. Bulk wholesale orders (30,000+ meters) can reduce prices significantly, sometimes to $0.02–$0.06 per meter, depending on supplier and technical specifications. Factors Affecting Price Fiber Core Count: More cores increase the number of buffer tubes, cable diameter, and production cost. Sheath Material: PE (Polyethylene) is standard and economical, while AT (Anti-Tracking) or LSZH sheaths for high-voltage or water-resistant applications are more expensive. Span Length and Tensile Strength: Longer spans and higher tensile strength (20–70 kN) require more reinforcement, increasing cost. Environmental Resistance: Armored or W-rated cables for water and weather resistance cost more. Brand and Fiber Type: Premium fibers (e.g., Corning®, YOFC®, Fujikura®) are pricier than generic options. Installation Complexity: Aerial installation on poles or high-voltage lines may increase overall project cost due to safety measures. Wholesale Purchasing Tips Buy in bulk to leverage supplier discounts. Compare suppliers in Asia-Pacific, especially China, which dominates production and offers competitive pricing. Check compliance with regional standards (IEC 60794, IEEE 1138, ANSI/ICEA S-87-640, EN 187103) to avoid additional costs later. Consider cable type: Central tube designs are lighter and suitable for shorter spans, while stranded designs support longer spans. Summary ADSS fiber optic cabl...
