

Italian direct-buried optical cable manufacturer

AI Overview

Tratos, Cavicel, CPE Italia, TECNIKABEL, and Ecotech are leading Italian manufacturers of direct-buried optical fiber cables. Key Manufacturers

Tratos Group
Tratos is an established international manufacturer of optical fiber cables, supplying Telecom Italia since 1982. They produce a full range of optical fiber cables, including direct-buried underground cables, loose tube, ribbon, slotted ribbon, and hybrid copper-fiber cables. Their products are designed for FTTH, broadband, and telecommunications networks, with high durability and ease of installation for underground applications.

Cavicel S.p.A.
Cavicel specializes in designing and producing fiber optic cables for various applications, including direct-buried installations. They have a global presence and emphasize quality and innovation, offering cables suitable for high-performance telecommunications and broadband networks.

CPE Italia
CPE Italia focuses on fiber optic interconnection solutions and infrastructure development. Their production includes several thousand cables per year, supporting underground and direct-buried deployments. They also provide engineering and consulting services for network projects.

TECNIKABEL
TECNIKABEL manufactures high-quality optical fiber cables with advanced technologies, including low-smoke zero-halogen (LS0H) and fire-resistant cables suitable for civil and industrial environments. Their products are designed for direct-buried and indoor/outdoor applications, meeting stringent safety and environmental standards.

Ecotech / Ecotel
Ecotech, through its subsidiary Ecotel, produces loose multi-tube optical cables with up to 432 fibers, suitable for direct-buried installation. Their cables comply with Telecom Italia standards (C.T. 771/777) and are configurable for different project requirements, including outdoor and underground deployment.
