

Price list for 200G industrial switches for data center interconnection

AI Overview

200G industrial switches for data center interconnection are available from multiple vendors, with prices typically ranging from $15,000 to $50,000 per unit depending on port density, features, and vendor. Key Vendors and Models

1. FS 200G Data Center Switches FS offers flexible 200G switches suitable for large enterprises and cloud providers. These switches support high-performance data center interconnection and are available in modular and fixed configurations, optimized for scalability and low-latency networking. Pricing is competitive, and FS provides bulk purchase options for enterprise deployments.
2. NADDOD 200G AI Data Center Switches The NADDOD N8600-24QC8DC model features 32 ports with Broadcom Trident 4 ASIC, supporting RoCEv2 lossless networking and full L3 forwarding. It delivers 16Tbps capacity and is optimized for AI/ML, cloud, and HPC workloads. These switches are designed for high-density deployments and typically fall in the $20,000–$35,000 range per unit, depending on configuration and volume.
3. NVIDIA Quantum QM8700 Series The QM8700-HS2F 200G InfiniBand switch offers up to 40 non-blocking 200G ports or 80 100G ports, with 16Tb/s aggregate throughput and ultra-low latency. It supports advanced features like adaptive routing, congestion control, and in-network computing via SHARP technology, ideal for HPC and AI clusters. Pricing for these high-end switches is generally $40,000–$50,000 per unit.
4. H3C Industrial Switches H3C provides industrial-grade switches capable of operating in extreme environments (–40°C to 75°C) with IP40 protection, shockproof, anti-EMI, and anti-lightning features. These are suitable for outdoor or industrial data center interconnect scenarios. Pricing varies widely based on environmental ruggedization and port configuration, typically starting around $15,000 per unit.
