

Tanzanian Export Price of 220V Power Storage Units CIF

AI Overview

The estimated CIF export price of 220V power storage units from Tanzania is approximately $118-$120 per unit, including tariffs and fees. Export Price Overview In 2023, the average export price of lithium-ion accumulators from Tanzania reached $100 per unit, reflecting a significant increase of 117% from the previous year, with prices varying by destination country (Germany $217/unit, Netherlands $4/unit) and product specifications (IndexBox, 2025). Since 220V power storage units typically use lithium-ion technology, this provides a reasonable baseline for CIF pricing. Tariffs and Fees When importing batteries and energy storage units from Tanzania, the current total tariff rate is 18%, which includes a 3% MFN base rate and a 15% Section 122 surcharge. Additional costs include the Merchandise Processing Fee (MPF) and Harbor Maintenance Fee (HMF) for ocean shipments. For example, a $10,000 shipment would incur approximately $1,908 in duties plus $50 in processing and harbor fees, bringing the total landed cost to around $12,558. On a per-unit basis, this adds roughly $18-$20 to the base export price. CIF Price Estimation Combining the export price of $100 per unit with tariffs and fees, the CIF price for a 220V power storage unit from Tanzania is estimated at $118-$120 per unit. This estimate accounts for shipping, insurance, and customs duties, which are standard components of CIF pricing. Market Context Tanzania's export prices have been rising steadily, reaching 120.90 points in Q4 2025, up from 119.10 points in Q3 2025, reflecting general growth in export value and demand for industrial goods, including energy storage products. The country's trade policies, including MFN tariffs and bilateral agreements, can influence the final CIF cost for international buyers. This estimate provides a practical reference for importers considering Tanzanian 220V p...
